The rustic type of tile is actually very interesting because the process of production uses the glaze technique like the unique and micro crystal tile but the surface is still rough. The finishing touch is left unpolished to produce the rough outcome needed for the increasing trend of urban concept in any available space. This is a spot on "back to nature" concept suited for indoors or outdoors layout.

Textured

Surface: Rustic
Size: 60x60 cm

Following the production process like the rustic tile, the textured tile has tremendously rough scaly surface just like rocks or pebbles on the street. The winning properties of this textured tile is it's anti-slip surface where these tiles are best suited when paved on outdoors or indoors where these places have a lot of contact with liquid. The textured tile is very resistant to heat and almost immune to any abrasions or rapture.

Double Loading

Surface: Polish
Size: 60x120 cm

Unlike the soluble salt, double loading tile has higher resistance to abrasions and rapture due to a more sophisticated process of production technique. The double loading tile is pressed twice by pressure machines before before the polishing process, therefore creating more solid and hardened surface. Finally, the color and the design of the tile outcome is as beautiful comparable to the real granite textured.
